Attorneys for the various roads are said to be a unit in asserting that the commission has not the power to compel the production of the data desired and the railroad officials have refused to give it because they believe the commission desires to punish the ckers who accepted rebates.

When the commission was here last month each traffic manager was asked to give the rebates paid by his line during the year and to whom paid. Several of them, among them being Paul Morton of the Santa Fe, told the commission that they could not do it offhand, but would have the data furnished if it existed. After waiting several weeks the commission wrote letters to each of the traffic officials, in which categorical questions were asked and answers were requested. After several meetings it was decided that the data necessary to prepare the replies demanded was not in existence

The prisoner is seriously wounded another sailor. confined at Laguan. This is regarded as the most important military event since the capture of Aguinaldo, as Lucban was one of the most energetic and ferocious of rebels. The scene of his operations was the island of Samar, where his reign of terror was so complete that the inhabitants of the island paid tribute to him as the price of freedom from attack. General Chaffee has ordered Lucban to be treated as a prisoner of war of officer's rank Another capture recorded in the disatch is that of William Dunston of Company C. Eighth infantry, at Caghayan, island of Samar.

House Non-Concurs in Senate Amend ments to Philippine Tariff Bill.

Washington, Feb. 27 .- The house sent the Philippine tariff bill to conference, non-concurring in all the senate amendments. The Democrats sought to amend the amendments by reducing the rate of duty and declaring the United States should relinquish all claim to the archipelago, but all propositions were defeated. along the river front at Columbia are in terror. The worst flood in recent years is being experienced. The ice on the Susquehanna broke about o'clock between Columbia and Mari etta and passed down stream until it reached the old dam just below Columbia, where a jam formed. The water entered the boiler room of the electric light plant, drowning the fires and leaving the town in darkness. If the rise continues at the present rate the lace mills will be damaged and the two rolling mills of the Susquehanna Iron company put out of operation. In the confusion it is impossible to ascertain the full extent of the dam-volume of water into the river at Safe Harbor. This stream is higher than it has been for 35 years. Lancaster too is without light because of damage from this stream to the electric light plant. Water is pouring over the great steel bridge of the Pennsylvania Railroad company which spans the Susquehanna from Columbia to Wrightsville and the river is still

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMIS-SION AND RAILROADS MAY FIGHT.

Attorneys for Western Companies Assert That the Corporations Cannot Be Compelled to Furnish Information-Generally Believed Commission Will Try and Enforce Its Re-

Chicago, Feb. 27 .- The interstate sommerce commission and the management of Western roads have locked horns and it is expected that a legal contest will follow. The difficulty arises from a refusal by the traffic managers of the Western roads to furnish the commission with data relative to rebates which were paid dur-

Concerted action has been taken in the matter and is the result of several meetings among the executive officials in which the question was discussed at length. It is understood that all have agreed to stand together and that the refusal to give the information sought was after legal advice had been taken.

Attorneys for the various roads are said to be a unit in asserting that the commission has not the power to compel the production of the data desired and the railroad officials have refused to give it because they believe the commission desires to punish the packers who accepted rebates.

When the commission was here last month each traffic manager was asked to give the rebates paid by his line during the year and to whom paid. Several of them, among them being Paul Morton of the Santa Fe, told the commission that they could not do it offhand, but would have the data furnished if it existed. After waiting several weeks the commission wrote letters to each of the traffic officials. in which categorical questions were asked and answers were requested. After several meetings it was decided that the data necessary to prepare the replies demanded was not in exist-

LUCBAN A PRISONER.

Leader of the Samar Insurgents Taken by Filipino Scouts.

Washington, Feb. 27 .- The war department has been notified by General Chaffee of the capture of General Lucban on the 22d inst. The capture was made by Lieutenant Stribler of the Philippine scouts. The prisoner is confined at Laguan. This is regarded as the most important military event since the capture of Aguinaldo, as Lucban was one of the most energetic and ferocious of rebels. The scene of his operations was the island of Samar, where his reign of terror was so complete that the inhabitants of the island paid tribute to him as the price of freedom from attack. General Chaffee has ordered Lucban to be treated as a prisoner of war of officer's rank Another capture recorded in the dispatch is that of William Dunston of Company C. Eighth infantry, at Caghayan, island of Samar.

FLOOD CAUSES TERROR.

Two Pennsylvania Cities Are in Darkness and Fear.

Lancaster, Pa., Feb. 27.—Residents along the river front at Columbia are in terror. The worst flood in recent years is being experienced. The ice on the Susquehanna broke about 4 o'clock between Columbia and Marietta and passed down stream until it reached the old dam just below Columbia, where a jam formed. The water entered the boiler room of the electric light plant, drowning the fires and leaving the town in darkness. If the rise continues at the present rate the lace mills will be damaged and the two rolling mills of the Susquehanna Iron company put out of operation. In the confusion it is impossible to ascertain the full extent of the dam-tee on privileges and elections continned its consideration of the Tillman-McLaurin episode during the day, but reached no conclusion beyond deciding to refer the matter to a sub-committee. The meeting of the committee was devoted to a general exchange of views. No vote was taken on any proposition; indeed, no proposition was made either by the majority or the minority. There was entire agreement on the one point, that both the South Carolina senators should be punished, but there was disagreement house, and $7,500 as named by the on the details of punishment, as well as on the degree of it. A half dozen different suggestions were made as to modes of punishment, including suspension and censure by the senate, and censure with the added requirement of further apologies from the offenders. There also was a continued discussion of the relative punishment of the two men. Most of the Republican members of the committee hold that to Senator Tillman should be awarded a more severe form of rebuke than to Senator McLaurin, while the Democrats do not generally concede there should be discrimination. The Democrats also held out stiffly against all suggestions looking to the suspension of the privileges of the senators as an attack on the rights of the state they represent rather than on the senators themselves. The proceedings were not of a character to permit of any definite conclusion as to what the result would be, though so far as they went they indicated censure as the form of punishment most likely to be recommended. Some of the Republicans, however, are holding out for a more pronounced

Washington, Feb. 27.—Governor Talt continued his statement before the insular committee of the house. Referring to the Philippine tariff he advocated a reduction of 75 per cent on tobacco, sugar and hemp. He emphasized the need of increasing the appropriation for permanent military posts, as the present system of using churches, schools and private houses as soldiers' quarters did not assist toward tranquillity. At times, too, he said, the officers took the best houses About Thirteen Thousand Men Are for their quarters and occasionally there were delays in paying the rent for native quarters. Contrary to the wishes of the majority of the loggers of northern Minnesota it is a perfect spring day and the snow has all disappeared and the ground is now even mucky.

Lumber jacks are pouring in from all directions, and in many instances the camps are being deserted. It is a rather serious state of affairs and to many of the smaller logging firms it means financial ruin.

Some of the camps have been closed down entirely by the thaw that has taken away all the snow and ruined the ice roads, while a few camps are worrying along by working the teams and men at night when there is a temporary freezing on the roads.

"One prominent logger said today that no matter if the weather is cold from this week on to the late spring, some of the operators would remain frightened and work very close to their cut. Those operators that have from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 feet cut ahead are worrying the most. The sad feature about the whole matter is the fact that Mrs. Patterson had not heard a word from her husband for nearly six years. But through all these years she says she kept up her hope and thought that when he got tired of his wanderings that he would write or return to his wife and little baby girl. Hope was the small thread to which she clung and through the years of waiting she toiled on to eke out enough to keep the wolf from the door.

To the last she displayed that instinct of pure womanhood and never for an instant thought of being disloyal to him who had so cruelly left her with a babe in her arms to fight as best she could world's cruel war-

When the deceased husband left his home the family lived at Grant City, Ia., where they had always lived happily. He was interested in mining, and the first move he made was to go to Montana, where he worked for about two years. During these two years he wrote home constantly and talked of the time when he might return or send for his wife and babe.

About six years ago he moved from Montana, however, and the world seemed to have swallowed him up so far as his wife at home was concerned. Mrs. Patterson never heard a word from him or about him until the letter came vesterday informing her of his death. She wrote letters of inquiry after him, but it was of no avail, for he seemed to have covered his tracks behind him. She told her story this morning, and when she referred to the fact that he had not written her in all this time she wept tion as to the number of candies in if she only had some good reason teresting, to such an extent in fact why he had left her.

When Patterson left home the little girl who is now about ten years of age was but a year and a half old. She is attending the schools of the city now and is a bright child.

About seven months ago Mrs. Patterson left Iowa and moved to Brainerd, and since coming here she has been doing washing and odd jobs to earn a livlihood for herself, and child.

Some months ago she heard indirectly that her husband had made a stake in mining but the report was never verified and it is not known where the report came from. He was located at Fernie, B. C., according to the letter from the provincial police and Mrs. Patterson has al-

FAMOUS COLLEGE GUESTS.

Many Renowned Men Have Preceded Prince Henry at Harvard.

The coming visit of Prince Henry of Germany to Harvard university adds one more to a long list of celebrated visitors. Just before the Revolutionary war the last but one of the royal governors of Massachusetts, Hutchinson, came to Cambridge on a visit which | cures. was doubtless intended to revive the more than doubtful loyalty of the students and professors. He was accompanied by a retinue and was welcomed in a speech by Samuel Adams, "the Father of the American Revolution," who had graduated at Harvard in 1740. Even without the presence of Adams the students had already made their choice in the impending Revolution, and, although Governor Hutchinson represented the "king's majesty," George III. was not even mentioned in July 2 of the same year George as I had. Washington rode up what was then called "Tory row" in Cambridge and the whole college. President Quincy, speaking afterward, said that he looked "like a member of the general court from the rural districts of Massachusetts"-that is, he did not look city bred, but like the simple country gentleman that he admittedly was. The students had given up their own rooms to the soldiers of the American army, ington took command of the American army under the old elm that still stands in Cambridge. In 1776 the college conferred upon him the degree of the exercises.

Lafayette was another distinguished visitor. He was received in August, 1824, and was described at the time as being straight and noble, looking fully six feet in stature. Since then there have been a number of famous foreigners who have come to Cambridge to pay their respects to the oldest American university, among them the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, the Count of Turin, a member of the present reigning house of Italy, and, most conspicuous of all, the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII. The prince was about nineteen years old when he visited Cambridge. His signature is said to be still preserved, scratched on the window pane of a room in one of the older dormitories.

FAMOUS COLLEGE GUESTS.

Many Renowned Men Have Preceded Prince Henry at Harvard.

The coming visit of Prince Henry of Germany to Harvard university adds one more to a long list of celebrated visitors. Just before the Revolutionary war the last but one of the royal governors of Massachusetts, Hutchinson, came to Cambridge on a visit which was doubtless intended to revive the more than doubtful loyalty of the students and professors. He was accompanied by a retinue and was welcomed in a speech by Samuel Adams, "the Father of the American Revolution," who had graduated at Harvard in 1740. Even without the presence of Adams the students had already made their choice in the impending Revolution, and, although Governor Hutchinson represented the "king's majesty," George III. was not even mentioned in July 2 of the same year George Washington rode up what was then called "Tory row" in Cambridge and the whole college. Since then there have been a number of famous foreigners who have come to Cambridge to pay their respects to the oldest American university, among them the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, the Count of Turin, a member of the present reigning house of Italy, and, most conspicuous of all, the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII. The prince was about nineteen years old when he visited Cambridge. His signature is said to be still preserved, scratched on the window pane of a room in one of the oider dormitories.

The letter gave no further details other than chronicling the death, not even a message from the dving loved one.

The sad feature about the whole matter is the fact that Mrs. Patterhusband for nearly six years. But through all these years she says she me. kept up her hope and thought that when he got tired of his wanderings that he would write or return to his wife and little baby girl. Hope was the small thread to which she clung and through the years of waiting she toiled on to eke out enough to keep the wolf from the door.

To the last she displayed that instinct of pure womanhood and never for an instant thought of being dis loyal to him who had so cruelly left her with a babe in her arms to fight as best she could world's cruel warfares.

When the deceased husband left his home the family lived at Grant City, Ia., where they had always lived happily. He was interested in mining, and the first move he made was to go to Montana, where he worked for about two years. During these two years he wrote home constantly and talked of the time when he might return or send for his wife

About six years ago he moved from Montana, however, and the world seemed to have swallowed him up so far as his wife at home was concerned. Mrs. Patterson never heard a word from him or about him until the letter came yesterday informing her of his death. She wrote letters of inquiry after him, but it was of no avail, for he seemed to have covered his tracks behind him. She told her story this morning, and when she referred to the fact that he had not Dunn & Co. drug store. Speculawritten her in all this time she wept bitterly and said she might be happy if she only had some good reason why he had left her.

When Patterson left home the lit tle girl who is now about ten years of age was but a year and a half old. She is attending the schools of the city now and is a bright child.

About seven months ago Mrs. Patterson left Iowa and moved to Brainerd, and since coming here she has been doing washing and odd jobs to earn a livlihood for herself, and child. Some months ago she heard indirectly that her husband had made a stake in mining but the report was never verified and it is not known where the report came from. He was located at Fernie, B. C., according to the letter from the provincial police and Mrs. Patterson has already written to ascertain if he left property.

She stated this morning that she did not care so much about what property he had left as she did about getting some word from him relative to herself and her child. The deceased would have been 52 years of age on July 2 next.

DINES WITH EDITORS

ONE THOUSAND PRESENT

Newspaper Men From All Parts of the Union Greet the Kaiser's Brother. Most Noteworthy Gathering of the Profession Ever Assembled in This Country-Royal Visitor Enthusias tically Received by the Journalists.

New York, Feb. 27.-Prince Henry of Prussia dined during the evening with 1,000 of the men who make American newspapers. He was the special guest of Herman Ridder, proprietor of the New York Staats Zeltung, who gathered at his table a majority of the leading figures in American journalism. They came from the four quarters of the country and made the most noteworthy gathering of their profession ever assembled in the United States. There was a felicitious exchange of greetings between Prine Henry and the men who spoke for the journalists and the affair claims rank as one of the notable incidents of the American tour of the German prince.

The dinner was given in the handsome ball room of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, but that immense apartment was not large enough to accommodate the newspaper guests and the Astor gallery was also used.

The two rooms were splendidly decorated. Mr. Ridder and the special guests sat at an elevated table above which were the American and German flags. Above them was the Prussian eagle done in incandescent lights. From the boxes bung clinging vines and set in on the ledges were hundreds of palms. Each table carried bouquets of American beauty roses, around which were candelabra shaded in red

Prince Henry, attended by the members of his suite, drove to the hotel under escort of cavalry and mounted police. The demonstration in the streets leading to the hotel was the most cordial of any that has so far marked his appearance in public. Great crowds which lined the way cheered when the prince came in sight and he frequently raised his hand to his cap in acknowledgment of the demonstrations. The prince reached the hotel at 8:30 o'clock and was received by Mr. Ridder, The band played the American national anthem as the first of the uniformed staff entered and the crowd of guests arose.

An Enthusiastic Reception.

took his place at the side of Mr. Ridder at the special table. As the prince brilliancy to an already attractive property

Mr. Ridder called upon Bishop Potter, who offered a brief grace. small army of waiters quickly filled large gathering the banquet began.

As the evening proceeded hundreds of handsomely gowned women filled the boxes above the dining hall. An orchestra high up in the second tier of boxes played national music and when a tune caught the fancy of the crowd they sang it. At "Die Wacht Am Rhein," the crowd arose and after singing it lustily there were loud cheers. "America" got the same enthusiastic treatment. At 10:25 o'clock Mr. Ridder, rapping for attention, proposed the health of the president of the United States and Kaiser Wilhelm and called upon Whitelaw Reid to respond. After Mr. Reid's speech Prince Henry was introduced. As he stood up the crowd burst into song, "Hoch Soll er Leben Mal Hoch." After that they sang For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." fore beginning his set speech the prince said: "This is the largest interview I ever had.

Addresses were also made by Charles Emory Smith and Charles W.

The dinner was concluded at 11:45 and the prince immediately left, accompanied by his suite. He was very heartily cheered as he went out of the banquetting room.

KAISER DELIGHTED.

Expresses Pleasure at the Reception Tendered His Brother.

Berlin, Feb. 27 .- The details of the movements of Prince Henry and the courtesies shown him in the United States continue to be followed here with extraordinary interest and the pleasure of Emperor William at the reception tendered his brother has been freely expressed by members of the royal household. In official circles it is considered that the emperor has personally accomplished by sending Prince Henry to the United States what it would have taken years to do otherwise. An inspired statement has been published by the German press.

The highest political circles are immensely pleased at the excellent course, up to the present time, of Prince Henry's visit. The conviction is entertained that these festive days will substantially contribute toward rendering the relations of the two countries permanently friendly, and especial delight is expressed at the cordiality of the personal intercourse etween President Roosevelt and Prince Henry.'

Newspaper Men From All Parts of the Union Greet the Kaiser's Brother. Most Noteworthy Gathering of the Country-Royal Visitor Enthusias tically Received by the Journalists.

New York, Feb. 27.-Prince Henry of Prussia dined during the evening with 1,000 of the men who make American newspapers. He was the special guest of Herman Ridder, proprietor of the New York Staats Zeitung, who gathered at his table a majority of the leading figures in American journalism. They came from the four quarters of the country and made the most noteworthy gathering of their profession ever assembled in the United States. There was a felicitious exchange of greetings between Prine Henry and the men who spoke for the journalists and the affair claims rank as one of the notable incidents of the American tour of the German prince. The dinner was given in the hand-

Mr. Ridder and the special guests sat at an elevated table above which were the American and German flags. Above them was the Prussian eagle done in incandescent lights. From the boxes nung clinging vines and set in on the ledges were hundreds of palms. Each table carried

The demonstration in the streets leading to the hotel was the most cordial of any that has so far marked his appearance in public. Great crowds which lined the way cheered when the prince came in sight and he frequently raised his hand to his cap in acknowledgment of the demonstrations. The prince reached the hotel at 8:30 o'clock and was received by Mr. Ridder. The band played the American national anthem as the first of the uniformed staff entered and the crowd of guests arose. An Enthusiastic Reception.

There was a great cheer as the prince appeared and another when he took his place at the side of Mr. Ridder at the special table. As the prince took his seat the electric light was flashed into the Prusssian eagle above him on the southern wall and the brilliancy to an already attractive

As the evening proceeded hundreds of handsomely gowned women filled the boxes above the dining hall. An orchestra high up in the second tier of boxes played national music and when a tune caught the fancy of the crowd they sang it. At "Die Wacht Am Rhein," the crowd arose and after singing it lustily there were loud cheers. "America" got the same enthusiastic treatment. At 10:25 o'clock Mr. Ridder, rapping for attention, proposed the health of the president of the United States and Kaiser Wilhelm and called upon Whitelaw Reid to respond. After Mr. Reid's speech Prince Henry was introduced. As he stood up the crowd burst into song, "Hoch Soll er Leben Mal Hoch." After that they sang 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." fore beginning his set speech the prince said: "This is the largest interview I ever had.

Addresses were also made by Charles Emory Smith and Charles W.

The dinner was concluded at 11:45 and the prince immediately left, accompanied by his suite. He was very heartily cheered as he went out of the banquetting room.

Berlin, Feb. 27 .- The details of the movements of Prince Henry and the courtesies shown him in the United States continue to be followed here with extraordinary interest and the pleasure of Emperor William at the reception tendered his brother has been freely expressed by members of the royal household. An inspired statement has been published by the German press.

It says: The highest political circles are immensely pleased at the excellent course, up to the present time, of Prince Henry's visit. What Albert L. Johnson Believed Could Be Done.

PLANNED BIG ELECTRIC SYSTEM.

Noted Railronder Proposed to Run Cars Between New York, Philadelphia and Other Cities at Speed Equal to That of Steam Express Trains-Fares Could Be Much Lower.

The following is taken from an article on "Albert L. Johnson, the Man," written by Henry George, Jr., for The Single Tax Review of Jan. 15:

It was on the 17th of June, a glorious summer afternoon and just a few days before he unexpectedly passed away, that I had my last chat with Albert L. Johnson, a man in many ways as remarkable as his more widely known brother, Tom L. Johnson, mayor of Cleveland, O.

At the time of his death Albert Johnson was engaged in a project to contime equal to the steam express trains, but at a very much lower fare. The Westinghouse and the General Electric of orders. companies had each offered to guarantee an equipment that would run cars sixty miles an hour. As a matter of fact, experiments have since been made on a military electric road in Germany, and a sustained speed close to 100 miles an hour has been attained. Mr. Johnson's idea was to build a road as straight as possible between the two cities, with no grade crossings, and to make no stops or slowups, having special cars or trains run to or from intermediate points and switch to or from the main line. He had commenced the formation of this line by the purchase and extension of an electric road between Trenton and Prince- indictment. ton, N. J. He intended to buy or to construct other roads and thus make a through line between New York and Philadelphia, cars to be running between the great cities within a year.

"The rate of fare between New York and Philadelphia is now $2.50," Mr. Johnson said, speaking of his project. "I propose to put my fare at 50 cents high only because others raise an outcry and say I'll ruin myself. But the truth is that I have made careful calculations upon what my electric system in the Lehigh valley, Pennsylvania, is doing, and I say candidly that I'd be ashamed to tell the public how much money I could make at 25 cents at a five cent fare.

"That sounds like a dream, I know, but I am no dreamer. I am a practical railroad man who has created new railroad business by reducing fares. I have my own and my brother's business experience in a number of the large cities of the country, and knowledge gained through my Lehigh valley system, connecting a large number of towns and villages, to guide me both in the construction and in the operation of electric railroads. I have also am prepared to prove that no more electricity is required to send a car that makes no stops or slowups at a high rate of speed from New York to Philadelphia than it does to carry a the Newfoundland assembly. car from end to end of a system in New York or Brooklyn, where there are frequent stops at street corners. is needed to keep it going after it has once been in full motion, so that a car traveling the long distance, but making no stops, would use no more power than one traveling the short distance with frequent stops. The wages charge would be the same in both cases.

And then it will not be long before the whole country will be covered by a network of these electric railroads, each running its single cars or its trains as necessity may demand.

PRINCE HENRY ATTENDS AN IM-PORTANT FUNCTION AT THE WALDORF-ASTORIA.

Newspaper Men From All Parts of the Union Greet the Kaiser's Brother, Most Noteworthy Gathering of the Country-Royal Visitor Enthusias tically Received by the Journalists. New York, Feb. 27.-Prince Henry of Prussia dined during the evening

with 1,000 of the men who make American newspapers. He was the special guest of Herman Ridder, proprietor of the New York Staats Zeitung, who the leading figures in American journalism. They came from the four quarters of the country and made the most noteworthy gathering of their profession ever assembled in the United States. There was a felicitious exchange of greetings between Prine Henry and the men who spoke for the journalists and the affair claims rank American tour of the German prince.

The dinner was given in the handsome ball room of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, but that immense apartment was not large enough to accommodate the newspaper guests and the Astor gallery was also used.

The two rooms were splendidly decorated. Mr. Ridder and the special guests sat at an elevated table above which were the American and German flags. Above them was the Prussian eagle done in incandescent lights. From the boxes pung clinging vines and set in on the ledges were hundreds of palms. Each table carried bouquets of American beauty roses, around which were candelabra shaded

Prince Henry, attended by the members of his suite, drove to the hotel under escort of cavalry and mounted police. The demonstration in the streets leading to the hotel was the most cordial of any that has so far marked his appearance in public. Great crowds which lined the way cheered when the prince came in sight and he frequently raised his hand to his cap in acknowledgment of the demonstrations. The prince reached the hotel at 8:30 o'clock and was received by Mr. Ridder. The band played the American national anthem as the first of the uniformed staff entered and the crowd of guests arose.

An Enthusiastic Reception.

There was a great cheer as the prince appeared and another when he took his place at the side of Mr. Ridder at the special table. As the prince took his seat the electric light was flashed into the Prusssian eagle above him on the southern wall and the power was also increased in every one of the 2,500 incandescent lights that burned in the room. It gave special brilliancy to an already attractive property.

Mr. Ridder called upon Bishop Potter, who offered a brief grace. small army of waiters quickly filled the aisles between tables and with an order that was remarkable in such a large gathering the banquet began.

As the evening proceeded hundreds of handsomely gowned women filled the boxes above the dining hall. An orchestra high up in the second tier of boxes played national music and when a tune caught the fancy of the crowd they sang it. At "Die Wacht Am Rhein," the crowd arose and after singing it lustily there were loud "America" got the same en-

Before beginning his set speech the prince said: "This is the largest interview I ever had.

The dinner was concluded at 11:45 and the prince immediately left, accompanied by his suite. He was very heartily cheered as he went out of the banquetting room

Berlin, Feb. 27 .- The details of the movements of Prince Henry and the courtesies shown him in the United States continue to be followed here with extraordinary interest and the pleasure of Emperor William at the reception tendered his brother has been freely expressed by members of the royal household. In official circles it is considered that the emperor has personally accomplished by sending Prince Henry to the United States what it would have taken years to do otherwise. An inspired statement has been published by the German press.

It says: The highest political circles are Immensely pleased at the excellent course, up to the present time, of Prince Henry's visit. The conviction is entertained that these festive days will substantially contribute toward rendering the relations of the two countries permanently friendly, and especial delight is expressed at the cordiality of the personal intercourse Letween President Roosevelt and

PLANNED BIG ELECTRIC SYSTEM.

Noted Railronder Proposed to Run Cars Between New York, Philadelphia and Other Cities at Speed Equal to That of Steam Express Trains-Fares Could Be Much Lower,

The following is taken from an article on "Albert L. Johnson, the Man," written by Henry George, Jr., for The Single Tax Review of Jan. 15:

It was on the 17th of June, a glorious summer afternoon and just a few days before he unexpectedly passed away, that I had my last chat with Albert L. Johnson, a man in many ways as remarkable as his more widely known brother, Tom L. Johnson, mayor of Cleveland, O.

At the time of his death Albert Johnson was engaged in a project to connect New York and Philadelphia with an electric system which should make time equal to the steam express trains, Westinghouse and the General Electric companies had each offered to guarantee an equipment that would run cars sixty miles an hour. As a matter of fact, experiments have since been made on a military electric road in Germany, and a sustained speed close to 100 miles an hour has been attained. Mr. Johnson's idea was to build a road as straight as possible between the two cities, with no grade crossings, and to make no stops or slowups, having special cars or trains run to or from intermediate points and switch to or from the main line. He had comthe purchase and extension of an electric road between Trenton and Princeton, N. J. He intended to buy or to construct other roads and thus make a through line between New York and Philadelphia, cars to be running between the great cities within a year.

"The rate of fare between New York and Philadelphia is now $2.50," Mr. Johnson said, speaking of his project. "I propose to put my fare at 50 cents to start with, although I make it this high only because others raise an outcry and say I'll ruin myself. But the truth is that I have made careful calculations upon what my electric system in the Lehigh valley, Pennsylvania, is doing, and I say candidly that I'd be ashamed to tell the public how delphia and that there is a big fortune at a five cent fare.

"That sounds like a dream, I know, but I am no dreamer. I am a practical railroad man who has created new railroad business by reducing fares. I have my own and my brother's business experience in a number of the large cities of the country, and knowledge gained through my Lehigh valley system, connecting a large number of towns and villages, to guide me both in the construction and in the operation of electric railroads. I have also make special calculations for me, and I am prepared to prove that no more electricity is required to send a car that makes no stops or slowups at a high rate of speed from New York to Philadelphia than it does to carry a car from end to end of a system in New York or Brooklyn, where there are frequent stops at street corners. From seven to twelve times more electricity is required to start a car than is needed to keep it going after it has once been in full motion, so that a car traveling the long distance, but making no stops, would use no more power than one traveling the short distance with frequent stops. The wages charge would be the same in both cases.

"Damage charges are very heavy in a large city. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit company had $1,000,000 against it in damage suits last year. A million dollars would raise or depress every crossroad along the line of a New York-Philadelphia railroad, so that there need not be a single grade crossing, and the most fruitful source of accidents would thus be cut off. Then the expense of building a street railroad is very great as compared with that of a railroad through an open country. In this way I reach the conclusion that railroad fares should be no greater than those of railroads in the cities.

"Most railroad men may call me crazy for proposing to do such things. but that is because they themselves or their stockholders have not the courage to try it, or else they do not know how. But I can tell you that where I lead other men will follow. They will get courage and will see how simple it all is, provided, of course, the right kind of management is supplied. And then it will not be long before the whole country will be covered by a network of these electric rallroads, each running its single cars or its trains as necessity may demand.
